

Brink's Receives CMA Acceptance in Principle of Proposed Remedy Relating to Pending Acquisition of NCR Atleos

October 8, 2026

Divestiture of NoteMachine/TestLink UK to avoid a CMA Phase 2 referral

Acquisition of NCR Atleos remains on track to close early in the first quarter of 2027

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 08, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- The Brink's Company (NYSE: BCO) ("Brink's" or "the Company") announced today that the United Kingdom's Competition and Markets Authority ("CMA") has accepted in principle Brink's proposed remedy for its planned acquisition of NCR Atleos Corporation (NYSE: NATL) ("NCR Atleos").

Brink's has been working constructively with the CMA to establish that the divestiture of NoteMachine/TestLink UK is an acceptable remedy (or "undertaking in lieu" of a referral for a Phase 2 investigation) to address the UK-specific concerns that the CMA shared with Brink's early in the review process. Brink's is committed to selecting a suitable buyer and concluding the divestiture process in a timely manner in order to avoid the CMA referring the acquisition to a Phase 2 investigation. As previously announced on September 30, 2026, the sale process is progressing, and Brink's remains engaged with a number of prospective buyers.

"We are pleased with the CMA's acceptance in principle of the proposed remedy, as this represents a significant step forward, and we appreciate the CMA's constructive and timely engagement throughout the process," said Mark Eubanks, President and Chief Executive Officer of Brink's. "The potential sale of NoteMachine/TestLink UK was a remedy that was contemplated in the financial metrics that Brink's has previously disclosed and does not impact the $200 million in annual run-rate cost synergies that we continue to expect to achieve within three years of closing the transaction. We continue to make progress towards the successful completion of our pending acquisition of NCR Atleos and look forward to positioning the combined business to deliver enhanced customer solutions and accelerate our value creation strategy."

Brink's acquisition of NCR Atleos remains on track to close early in the first quarter of 2027.
